Comments:

Students respond well to your friendly, calm, confident teaching persona. Your lessons are well prepared and you use a variety of methods. Your ability to dissect the details of a mathematical concept and package it for student use is a major asset; the combination of your personality, and that knowledge, makes for a truly gifted teacher with the potential to help many students in many ways. As you expand and deepen your teaching practice, look for opportunities to fine-tune those gifts.
